Description

This handsome library table is a lovely example with a good rich colour and nice patina in solid mahogany dating from the William IV period circa 1840. The table has a long drawer to the frieze with its original cast brass handles which is in good order running freely. This has elegant reeded legs with turned tulip feet in the classic William IV, late Regency style. The top surface is in nice clean condition. This is a very practical that would make a fine desk or alcove / side table measuring 73 cms high 106 cms wide by 61 cms deep. UK delivery can be arranged with our trusted furniture courier and costs £65 plus VAT
