Description

This lovely pair of highly decorative Chinese foo dogs dates to circa 1900 and is most likely French in manufacture. They are solidly cast with great detail and have a rich hand-painted finish that represents red lacquer. Their teeth and eyes have been highlighted in white. The foo dogs are very well modelled showing good movement and stance and a fierce expression. This heavy pair of tactile cast iron foo dogs are in very good condition with no damage. Their painted finish displays a dark patination. French circa 1900 Height 16cm x width 17cm x depth 13cm
