Description

Huge Antique Austrian Cold Painted Bronze Hawk on Quartz Rock By Franz Xaver Bergmann. This absolutely stunning example of a cold painted bronze is of huge proportions for an example of this type. The piece depicts a hawk landing on a rock with its wings outstretched and its head dipped. It is cast in exceptional detail with stunning paintwork highlighting every aspect of the hawks feathers, talons, and eyes. The whole piece is then mounted on an absolutely beautiful piece of real quartz rock with give the hawk an even more impressive and naturalistic look. The piece was made in Austria and is of the absolute upmost quality, which is no surprise as it was made by Franz Xaver Bergmann (1861-1936) and is stamped to the underside of the tail with his signature vase mark. The quality, size, and subject matter of this example is absolutely fantastic and point to being one of Bergmanns earlier works. A rare and wonderful piece that would look fantastic in any home or collection. Due to the pieces extremely delicate nature it is listed for collection in person although we can have the item shipped by one of our specialist antique couriers. It measures approximately: ...
