Description

Really large pair of 19th-century Country house size boot scrapers. Each scraper has a crack in the end, see photographs. (This is reflected in the price) I think this is probably a design fault as all four ends have them. As long as they are not dropped from a great height I can't see them getting any worse. I dare say that this is why this design is rare. I've never seen anything of this size before. Coalbrookdale design st 3739
