Description

This is a great late Victorian stained glass panel contained within a good solid antique pine frame dating from around 1900. The glasswork is in excellent condition for its age overall with the words "Club Room" to the centre in white milk glass all cleverly leaded into place. The condition is remarkably good with no real damage or losses, just a couple of tiny cracks to the letter L and C but very very minor. The sign probably formerly from a public house would look stunning in many settings like a modern kitchen or even the "Man Cave" and has a couple of mirror plate fixed to the top so is ready to display. The sign measures 103 cms by 53 cms overall. UK can be arranged with our trusted furniture courier and costs £55 plus vat to most destinations.
