Description

This exquisite portrait by Michael Dahl was part of the extensive collection owned by Thomas Wyndham of Clearwell Court in Gloucestershire. It made its way to Adare Manor in County Limerick as an inheritance for his only daughter, Caroline, who married Windham Wyndham-Quin, the 2nd Earl of Dunraven and Mount-Earl, in 1810. It is thought that this collection was transferred to Adare following a significant rebuilding project, during which many Wyndham family portraits were removed from Clearwell. By 1865, these portraits were certainly at Adare, as evidenced by a catalogue written by the Countess of Dunraven detailing the history and collection of the Manor. This particular portrait bears a faint label on its reverse, indicating its origin from Clearwell Court, suggesting it was relocated around this period. Additionally, it was captured in a photograph of Adare of this time. The portrait is said to represent Lady Catherine Montagu, the daughter of Robert Montagu, the 3rd Earl of Manchester, and Anne Yelverton. Born circa 1673, Catherine was one of ten siblings, several of whom became prominent figures in high society. Her sister Anne became the Countess of Suffolk and h...
