Description

This lovely original well painted portrait depicts a lady in a reddish-brown dress with large puffed sleeves and a fine lace neck and collar. She is also wearing a lace trimmed bonnet. The subject is most likely early American from her costume. The painting is in good original condition. It does show signs of tension on the canvas from the stretcher frame and there is some age related crazing to the paint. But the colours are bright and it has a very good decorative appeal. It is displayed in its original deep bevelled gilt wooden slip and broad moulded solid oak original frame. Circa 1830
