Description

A magnificent antique five-stone ring, beautifully hand crafted in rich 18 carat yellow gold and hallmarked in London in the year 1907. Set with three fine old brilliant cut diamonds and two velvety Kashmir blue sapphires, this elegant ring exudes classic Edwardian charm. The central diamonds, particularly well-cut, possess that soft, romantic sparkle unique to antique stones – a quality that simply cannot be replicated in modern cuts. The gems are securely set in a finely detailed gold gallery, with delicate engraving extending gracefully down the shoulders – a hallmark of fine early 20th-century design. Diamond sizes: Central stones approx. 2 x 4.5mm, outer stones approx. 3.5mm Total diamond weight: Approx. 0.75 carat Diamond quality: Colour H, Clarity SI2 Sapphire size: Each approx. 4mm Ring size: UK L / US 6 – easily resized Weight: Approx. 3 grams Hallmarks: London, 18ct Gold, 1907 (slightly rubbed but partially visible) Condition: Excellent original condition Presentation: Supplied in the box illustrated Our Reference: 2264 This superb antique ring would make a refined engagement ring or a treasured heirloom piece for the collector of fine period jewellery.
