Description

An elegant Victorian rosewood fold-over card table in wonderful antique condition. It's amazing grained top with curved corners, rotates to reveal a hidden storage recess with plenty of room inside to store the cards, games, etc. When opened the depth of the top extends to 91cm and reveal a vibrant green baize games surface. Supported by a tapered hexagonal column with a carved collar, the table stands on a quadrangular base with carved bun feet, ensuring stability and style. Like all antiques there are imperfections, however this is a solid table with a gorgeous warm colour and amazing patina. This is a beautiful, elegant piece of antique furniture showcasing 19th century craftsmanship evident in every detail. The transformation from a stunning console table to a games table is both practical and charming, making it a versatile addition to any home. Antiques like this not only add beauty to a space but also carry a sense of history and character. Imperfections only add to its charm, highlighting its authenticity and storied past.
