Description

A superb mahogany violin table from the Victorian era, showcasing exquisite craftsmanship and elegant detailing. The violin-shaped top features thumb-nail edging and a deep frieze, adding to its distinctive design. The table is supported by a substantially turned baluster column, richly carved with intricate detailing. This leads down to four gracefully curved legs, each adorned with C-scroll motifs and delicate floral decorations. The legs rest on their original casters, ensuring both mobility and authenticity. Like all antiques, it bears some imperfections reflective of its age, but remains a solid and beautifully preserved piece with an exceptional colour and patina.
