This refined English 19th-century Guéridon originates from an era when artisans honed their craft with passion and precision and it exemplifies a timeless design with a marble insert carefully placed into a prepared, dished frame of splendid oak. The oak, stripped back to reveal its natural, bleached finish, stands as the perfect canvas to showcase its exquisite details. It gracefully rests upon four cabriole legs adorned with acanthus leaves and terminating in lion's paw feet, before being mounted onto a shaped plinth. Imbued with the soul of traditional English design, every grace...
