Description

A very decorative solid wood Italian three seat settee, sofa or hall bench from the last decade of the 19th century when the Eclectic Umbertino Style was popular in Italy for its mix of decorative elements from the past. It has a lovely shaped back and apron, out swept scrolled arms and finely shaped cabriole front legs. The black leather type material has aged in a very attractive way and overall it is a strong sturdy sofa of very good quality. We are not sure if this is still the original upholstery and webbing but it certainly can be used as it is. For the long term it would benefit from re-webbing.
