Price

SoldItem Reference: SA1149316*Date of manufacture: 1900

Description

A fine pair of Scottish antique Edwardian sterling silver candelabra which have plain oval shaped loaded bases, tall plain columns and three-light branches with sweeping arms and detachable nozzles. By removing the branches, these Edwardian silver candelabra can be used solely as candlesticks if so desired, which makes them more versatile. They are attractive to the eye and would be practical to use on the dining table. Height of candelabra: 51 cms (20.1") Height of candlesticks: 31 cms (12.2") Width of branches: 42.6 cms (16.8") Length of each base: 17.5 cms (6.9") Width of each base: 11.5 cms (4.5") They were hallmarked in Edinburgh for 1901 by Hamilton & Inches. Complimentary postage is included within the price of these candelabra. If you have any queries, please do not hesitate to contact us.
