Description

A rare Royal Worcester porcelain figure dated 1930, modelled as a Spanish-style dancer in motion. The figure holds castanets in both hands and is captured mid-step with remarkable precision and poise. She wears a deep lustrous gown in an unusually dark pearlescent glaze — a rare variant for this model. The figure displays the exceptional detailing and crisp modelling that characterize Royal Worcester's interwar production. Each gesture is sensitively rendered, with balance, flow, and sculptural finesse. This is a highly collectible work, combining expressive movement with technical mastery. Its rare color and condition make it a sought-after piece among collectors of early 20th-century English porcelain. Condition: Excellent condition. Minor gilt wear to the hair.
