Description

A Edwardian silver caddy spoon with clear hallmarks for Sheffield 1908 and makers mark for Thomas Bradbury & Sons. This spoon was made in the Edwardian era when trends looked back beyond the Victorian age to the Georgian era for styles and designs that resonated with refined Edwardian taste. This spoon features a shell shaped bowl and a bright cut pattern on the handle, both features being classic designs used in both the Georgian and Edwardian eras. The spoon is very pretty and elegant and in excellent condition.
