Description

Edwardian golden oak dresser base This is a fine example of an Edwardian golden oak dresser base, notable for its elegant design and craftsmanship. The oak dresser base features a rectangular top with a rich, warm golden oak finish that showcases the natural grain beautifully. The front is fitted with three drawers, each adorned with brass bail handles, providing both functionality and a classic touch of period charm. Beneath the drawers runs an intricately carved fretwork apron, a distinctive feature that adds a sense of lightness and decorative flair to the structure. A particularly striking element is the central front leg, which is finely shaped and subtly accentuates the symmetry of the design. The piece stands on cabriole legs, which curve gracefully and end in traditional pad feet, reinforcing its Edwardian character and adding a touch of refinement. Overall, this dresser base is a superb example of early 20th-century English furniture, blending utility with ornamental detail. 153cms wide 60ins 43.5cms deep 17ins 70cms high 31ins Measurements are as accurate as possible "There is scarcely anything in the world that some man cannot make a little worse and sell a lit...
