Description

Victorian Cast Iron Stick Stand by Falkirk Foundry (c.1880) Item Code: DJ4A An ornate late 19th-century cast iron stick and umbrella stand by the renowned Falkirk Iron Company of Scotland, c.1880. This highly decorative example features a boldly cast Gothic-revival tracery design with floral rosettes, scrollwork, and a central spiral column, all surmounted by an elaborate arched cresting. The original removable drip tray sits within a finely cast base edged with stylised anthemion and gadroon mouldings. Side bars are supported by slender baluster columns with leafy embellishments. A true statement piece, ideal for a hallway, porch, or interior with Victorian or industrial character. Key Features: * Victorian, circa 1880 * Made by the Falkirk Iron Company, Scotland * Detailed cast Gothic tracery and floral motifs * Arched back with scroll cresting * Central spiral column and side uprights * Original sectioned drip tray * Robust and highly decorative * Minor wear and flaking consistent with age and finely cast, with enduring decorative appeal.
