Description

Antique Bronze Nataraja Shiva Sculpture – Hindu God of Dance This powerful Antique Bronze Nataraja (Shiva) sculpture captures the dynamic energy and spiritual symbolism of one of Hinduism's most iconic deities. Represented in the classic pose of the cosmic dance, Shiva is shown within a ring of flames, balancing on a demon that symbolizes ignorance, embodying the eternal cycle of creation, preservation, and destruction. Expertly cast in solid bronze with dark patination, this piece features finely rendered details: flowing hair, expressive facial features, and multiple arms gracefully positioned to convey the divine rhythm of the universe. The circular aureole surrounding the deity is adorned with stylized flames, symbolizing the fire of transformation. Features: Material: Solid bronze with dark aged patina Iconography: Nataraja Shiva dancing within a flaming halo, standing on Apasmara (the dwarf of ignorance) Origin: Likely South India, traditional Chola-style representation Approximate Dimensions: Height: 20 cm Width: 15.5 cm Condition: Excellent condition with minor wear consistent with age. Stable and well-balanced on its tiered pedestal base. This sculptur...
