Description

A beautiful antique solitaire engagement ring, crafted in rich 18ct yellow gold and set with a bright and lively old brilliant cut diamond. The diamond, approximately 0.30 carat, is full of fire and sparkle, and is secured in a classic raised eight-claw crown setting – a simple yet striking design that allows the stone to shine. Dating from the late Victorian to early Edwardian period, this ring is a lovely example of understated elegance and antique craftsmanship. It would make a wonderfully romantic and timeless engagement ring.
