Description

We are delighted to offer this stunning antique Victorian 18ct gold ruby made c.1900. Stunning, opulent and substantial in proportions, this ring is truly an alluring piece on all fronts and is particularly irresistible for pink gemstone/ruby lovers. The five Verneuil rubies taper in size and present a candy-like vivid colour with vibrant pinks and specs of darker and lighter reds particularly highlighted under natural sunlight. Depending on the angle and lighting, the colour changes in such an enchanting manner. Attention to detail and meticulous goldsmithing is apparent where the gemstones have been set in fine scrolled mounts with hardly any gaps, maximising the gem's surface area and complementing its overall dazzling appearance. The curved design not only allows for an ergonomic fit but presents each ruby with a slightly different angle, enhancing its shine and reflection. The ring glistens delightfully upon wearing especially on a sunny day. Such a combination of fine goldsmithing and stunning gems makes for a distinguished choice for antique jewellery lovers. Whether be it for wearing as a contrasting piece of jewellery among other pieces or as a bold single r...
