Description

19th Century Hand-Painted German Dresden Porcelain Figural Candelabra A charming example of 19th-century European craftsmanship, this antique German Dresden porcelain candelabra delights with its intricate hand-painted detail and Rococo-inspired elegance. Featuring a young flower-garlanded boy dressed in striped trousers and a floral garland, this two-arm candelabra is a fine display of artistry and whimsy typical of Dresden porcelain wares. Key Features: Origin: Germany (Dresden school) Date: 19th Century Material: Fine porcelain Decoration: Hand-painted in soft pastels and gilt accents, with applied floral elements Design: Twin candle holders rising from a foliate scrolled base, flanking a Rococo-style figure of a boy adorned with a floral wreath and carrying a harvest bundle Mark: Underside bears the hand-painted blue "R" mark, likely referencing a Dresden decorating studio Dimensions (Approx.): Height: 18cm Condition: Very good antique condition. Minor wear to the gilding and expected age-related restoration to some floral details, which are common for Dresden figural pieces. Displays beautifully with strong colour and fine porcelain detail. Notes: This pi...
