Description

An antique mahogany open bookcase, British, circa 1900. This large three-bay bookcase features twelve adjustable shelves housed within a solid framework defined by uprights and carved corbel capitals. The overhanging top is shaped with a shallow moulded edge, while the plinth base offers stability and visual weight. Richly toned with a warm aged patina, this piece is well-suited to displaying books, ceramics, or collections in a study, library or drawing room setting.
