Description

A very attractive pair of Chinese traditional Mirror paintings or reverse paintings on glass. They are very detailed showing ladies in traditional costume with flowers, foliage and interior scenes. The frames are traditional lacquered hardwood and in very good condition. Fabulous decorating pieces. We can discuss delivery options in UK mainland. Payment by bank transfer, PayPal or card via telephone. INFORMATION. This is a "reverse painting on glass," also known as Bolihua in Chinese or verre églomisé in French. The artist paints in reverse order, applying details and highlights first, followed by broader areas and background elements. Origin and Popularity: This technique gained popularity in China during the Qing Dynasty, particularly in the 18th and 19th centuries, often created for export to the West. Subject Matter: The painting depicts a scene with figures, likely from traditional Chinese motifs, plays, or novels, which were common subjects for these artworks.
