Description

A magnificent antique William IV rosewood work table or lamp table dating from circa 1835. In Beautifully figured rosewood, it has a circular casket with gadrooned carvings to the base supported by a carved and tapered centre column with turned collar, raised on a triform base on carved scroll feet terminating in casters. The top opens up to reveal a lined interior offering useful storage space and the lockable lid comes with a key. In good condition with good colour and patina, this exceptional piece being a round design would make a great lamp table.
