Description

Framed oil on panel by the artist Leon Houyoux (1856-1940). The painting shows a view of a lake and is framed in an attractive gilt Fram with painted slip and plaque with artists name. Léon Jean Jacques Houyoux, born on November 24, 1856, in Brussels and was distinguished Belgian painter renowned for his landscapes, nudes, and genre scenes. He died on 10 October 1940, in Auderghem. Houyoux, who was the uncle of architect Maurice Houyoux and publisher George Houyoux, had an influential career in the art world. From an early age, Léon was deeply inspired by nature. Although he did not begin formal art studies until the age of 19, he quickly immersed himself in the artistic community. Houyoux attended evening painting classes at the Brussels Academy of Painting before studying under the guidance of Jean François Portaels at the Royal Academy of Fine Arts in Brussels from 1877 to 1879. Following his academic training, Houyoux traveled extensively across Europe, where he encountered and embraced Impressionism, which seriously influenced his work. His journeys took him to Munich, Paris, the Netherlands, London, Scotland, Dresden, and Berlin. By 1885, he settled in Brussels...
