Description

A Victorian iron framed armchair, circa 1880, with unusual padded and buttoned back, the sprung serpentine seat raised on ring turned front supports terminating in original brass and porcelain castors. These iron framed chairs are particularly comfortable as the sprung back has some give. This example is a mid size and suitable as an occasional chair or for the bedroom. It is in good, sound condition and just needs new top covers. I can arrange upholstery and supply fabric if required. Please get in touch for further details. 84cm high, the seat 65cm at the front, 55cm deep and 27cm high.
