A rare and large wheel barometer with the unusual feature of a single fusee clock to the centre. The case is veneered with Rosewood and features a level dial to the base signed by the maker Ganthony of London. The large 12 inch barometer dial is beautifully engraved with typical weather indications, scrolls, swags and a depiction of the world. The enamel clock dial has finely made blued steel hands. Above this there is a removable Thermometer and at the very top a removable Hygrometer. The case is finished with a swan neck top and has some very intricate edge inlay featuring boxwood, ebony and kingwood. A rare and high quality example.
