Description

A charming antique Victorian ring, crafted in 15ct yellow gold and fully hallmarked at the Birmingham Assay Office in 1882. This beautiful cluster design features a central rose-cut diamond surrounded by six natural pearls, each securely collet-set within a decorative crimped foliate mount. The shoulders are finely embellished, adding to the overall elegance of the piece. The pearls have a soft, creamy lustre, and the rose-cut diamond provides a subtle glint of antique sparkle. This ring sits comfortably on the hand and looks truly enchanting when worn. Head of ring: 12.5mm wide, tapering to 2.8mm at the base. Central rose-cut diamond approx. 2.5mm. Six natural pearls approx. 3.5mm each. Fully hallmarked: 15ct gold, Birmingham, 1882 (crisp and clear). Ring size: UK N½ / US 7 – easily resizable. Weight: 3.8 grams. In excellent antique condition; two pearls show some loss of nacre (please see close-up photographs). Presented in the box illustrated. Our ref: 22150.
