Description

A fine quality 18th Century Mahogany Gainsborough Library Chair made from the finest quality timbers and of generous proportions. The Chair has developed a wonderful rich warm colour and patina over the years and remains in very good original condition throughout having original beech wood seat rails. Standing well on four old replacement brass casters of good quality. The seat is a perfect height at around 45cm. The upholstery is in good condition and just in need of a new cover in the material of choice. In nice solid condition Circa 1760.
