Description

A splendid antique sapphire and diamond ring from the late Victorian period, glowing with history and sentiment. Hand crafted in rich 18ct yellow gold, this classic boat ring is set with three old mine cut diamonds interspersed by two vivid cornflower blue sapphires. The old cut diamonds are full of character, exhibiting the subtle sparkle and depth that only antique stones can provide. Each gemstone is securely set in a traditional bateau-style gallery that curves gracefully along the finger, blending elegance and strength. The thick gold band and robust setting suggest it may have been made for a gentleman, though its timeless design makes it equally beautiful for a woman to wear. This is a ring with presence and romance – a fine piece of Victorian craftsmanship perfect as a meaningful gift or a striking alternative engagement ring.
