Description

This Unusual Antique "Miles from London" Bronze Distance Medallion by J. Ottley of Birmingham offers a charming record of distances from London to major cities, universities, and bathing places across the UK. One side features an elaborate circular layout radiating from "Miles Distant from London," pointing toward towns such as York, Liverpool, Bristol, and Exeter with accompanying mileages. The reverse displays distances to seaside resorts and university towns, offering a rare insight into Victorian-era geography and leisure destinations. * Both decorative and educational, it reflects the fascination with travel, measurement, and cartographic artistry of the 19th century. Measurements: Diameter: 2" (approx. 5cm) Total weight: 43g In good condition – Some edge wear and surface patina consistent with age. All text remains legible and sharply defined on both sides.
