Description

An exquisite Edwardian solitaire ring featuring a captivating old European cut diamond — a true heirloom piece for a romantic soul. Hand crafted in rich 18ct white gold with platinum detail, this antique engagement ring is a beautiful example of early 20th-century elegance. The diamond, a certified old European cut of approximately 1.00 carat, radiates with fire and brilliance — its broad facets and high crown creating a glow that modern cuts cannot replicate. The central stone is flanked by two delicate accent diamonds to each shoulder, set in platinum to subtly enhance the ring's beauty without distracting from the star of the show. Gracefully elevated in a classic coronet setting, the diamond sits proudly above the finger, drawing the eye and catching the light with every movement. Romantic, refined, and steeped in history, this is a ring to treasure for a lifetime — a magnificent engagement ring or a collector's piece for the lover of fine antique jewellery. Main diamond approx. 6.2 x 5.8mm, depth 4.5mm, estimated 1.00 carat Colour: G | Clarity: VSI Accent stones: 4 small diamonds set to shoulders Stamped: 18 CT Metal: 18ct white gold with platinum detail Dat...
