Description

A Victorian walnut revolving bookcase by James Shoolbred & Co., London, circa 1880. Crafted in solid walnut with a polished top and slatted sides, the two-tier structure is designed to rotate on its original castors. The base is stamped with the maker's mark, identifying it as a product of the renowned London retailer and cabinetmaker. Ideal for storing books or displaying small decorative objects, with a compact footprint and excellent period detailing.
