Description

A charming antique Edwardian diamond cluster ring, crafted in 18ct yellow gold with a platinum millegrain setting. At the centre sits a brilliant-cut diamond, beautifully framed by six sparkling diamonds in a classic floral daisy cluster design. The stones are securely set in platinum, enhancing their brilliance, and the cluster rests in an elegant scalloped gallery. The ring is finished with graceful knife-edge shoulders leading to a slender gold shank. This delightful piece would make a very special engagement ring and is a fine example of early 20th-century craftsmanship. Central diamond approx. 2.5mm; outer diamonds approx. 2mm each. Total diamond weight approx. 0.40ct, colour G/H, clarity SI. Head of ring: 9mm diameter, stands 3.5mm proud of the shank. Ring size: UK 1½ / US 4.5 – easily resizable. Marked 18ct gold. Circa 1910. Weight: 2 grams. In excellent condition. Please visit our website to view our full collection: <https://www.the-chelsea-bijouterie.com>. Payment: by credit / Debit card, PayPal or Bank transfer.
