Description

A very decorative, substantial and impressive pair of Breccia Medicea Antico (also known as Breccia Seravezza) marble Neoclassical lidded urns in good original condition. Good quality, by repute from a large country house collection, probably dating from the late 19th century based on an 18th Century design. It was not uncommon for large country houses to commission copies of earlier pieces to augment their collections or replace damaged versions. Italian, circa 1890.
