Description

William IV mahogany extending dining table This William IV mahogany extending dining table was made circa 1835. The dining table is of a square shape that pulls out on sliding runners to allow you to put in place, 1, 2 or 3 leaves to allow you to get the perfect size required for your guests. The William IV mahogany extending dining table stands on the most desirable shaped tulip legs, with brass cup castors below. These tables are so versatile as they allow you to use it closed for daily use or place the leaves in for larger seating arrangements of 10 or more. Imagine the pleasure this dining table will bring you as you entertain around this with your family and friends "There is scarcely anything in the world that some man cannot make a little worse and sell a little more cheaply. The person who buys on price alone is this man's lawful prey."
