Description

This is a beautiful antique George III satin wood hand-painted and parcel gilt wood breakfront console table, circa 1780 in date. The console is of Sheraton design, the crossbanded top features a border of trailing foliage and flowers and it has a charming central oval painted vignette of figures making music, painted in the manner of Angelica Kauffman. The console has a decorative carved floral lunette frieze and is raised on four legs with stunning wreath and acanthus carved decoration. The legs are united by an under tier centred with a painted musical and floral trophy. The legs terminate in toupee feet. The quality and attention to detail throughout is second to none. Provenance: A Private Collection, Staffordshire Condition: In excellent condition having only been beautifully cleaned and waxed in our workshops, please see photos for confirmation. Dimensions in cm: Height 81 cm x Width 104 cm x Depth 43 cm Dimensions in inches: Height 2 foot, 8 inches x Width 3 foot, 5 inches x Depth 1 foot, 5 inches Satin wood is a hard and durable wood with a satinlike sheen, much used in cabinetmaking, especially in marquetry. It comes from two tropical trees of the family...
