Description

A stunning small Worcester porcelain scalloped dessert plate painted in the Hope Edwardes pattern with a glorious cornucopia shaped claret ground overlaid with fine ciselé raised gilding. The central reserve has a large main arrangement of peach, grapes, red berries and morning glory flowers and scattered around are floral and berry sprigs and a small radish. Decorated in the atelier of James Giles, c.1770. This stunning pattern came into being following the commission of a dessert service by Sir Thomas Edwardes, whose descendant family later took the name Hope Edwardes. Reference: "In Search Of James Giles" by Gerald Coke, page 96 and plate 52c. Described as the "Hope Edwards" (sic) pattern, No. 2 version. There are some examples that are just floral but still decorated by Giles (No. 1 version according to Coke), and some other variations coming slightly later into the mid-1770's, not decorated by Giles, but probably by the factory itself and also include tea wares. Provenance: Private English collection. It measures 17.5cm (6 7/8") wide and 2.9cm (1 1/8") high. In excellent condition with no damage, repair or restoration. Some rubbing to the gilt on the rim but mi...
