Description

Fine large serving bottle. Box section mallet straight side body with long neck and annulated string-rim. English 1745. Base: 10 cm. Condition: Very good. The bottle has been professionally cleaned. Note: Prior to the development of corking machines or fitted glass stoppers, early bottles had a string rim which is a trail of glass which forms a ring around the neck of a wine bottle or decanter to enable a muslin cloth or cork to be fastened by wire or string. The bottle would have been made by blowing molten glass into an iron mould. Delivery by Royal Mail 24 hour tracked and signed. UK £8.00 Outside UK £20.
