Description

This Early Georgian Walnut Chest Of Drawers has an abundance of charm, as it proudly shows its history and age, and is all the better for it. Of a good useable size offering a considerable amount of storage space, The free running drawers have nicely figured Walnut veneer to the fronts with a decorative inlaid line. The brassware adorning the drawers adds further interest. The top also has an inlaid line along with crossbanding. The Walnut has matured to a lovely warm subtle hue that works so well with the contrasting brass. The piece would work well in both a traditional style of décor as well as providing a feature piece in a more modern environment. This Chest of Drawers could be used in so many areas of the home and is just waiting to provide further service to add to its history.
