A. L. Regnier for Théodore Deck – Exquisite Hand-Painted Faience Charger (c.1910) A striking and highly decorative faience charger designed by A. L. Regnier for the celebrated Théodore Deck factory, circa 1910. Beautifully hand-painted with large white and purple flowers amidst rich green foliage, the piece displays exceptional artistry and colour. Maker: A. L. Regnier for Théodore Deck Date: Circa 1910 Medium: Hand-painted faience Size: 29.8 cm diameter Marks: Signed A. L. Regnier to the lower right of the front edge; inscribed '33' and bearing the TH Deck factory mark to the reverse Condition: Very good antique condition A rare and highly collectible piece from an increasingly hard-to-find factory, this charger makes a superb statement display for collectors and interior settings alike. ABOUT Joseph Theodore Deck: Joseph-Théodore Deck (2 January 1823 – 15 May 1891) was a 19th-century French potter, an important figure in late 19th-century art pottery. Born in Guebwiller, Haut-Rhin, he began learning the trade in his early 20s, moving to Paris at age 24. In 1856 he established his own faience (earthenware) workshop, Joseph-Théodore Deck Ceramique Française, an...
