Description

Pair Arts & Crafts Turquoise Relief Plaques After Clodion – Children with Dog & Children with Goat, c.1909
Attributed to Reginald Robert Tomlinson (1885–1978) ?? Subject & Medium A rare pair of Arts & Crafts era turquoise-glazed ceramic relief plaques, circa 1909, finished in richly mottled teal-blue and presented in gilt-lined ebonized frames. Children with Dog (Enfants au Chien) ?? – playful putti wrestling with a hound, one child astride its back. Children with Goat (Enfants à la Chèvre) ?? – a spirited group tugging and climbing around a goat, brimming with Rococo vitality. Both works reinterpret Rococo reliefs by Claude Michel, known as Clodion (1738–1814), famed for his depictions of cherubs and Bacchic revelry. ?? Composition & Technique High relief casting with finely modeled surfaces. Arts & Crafts glazing in lustrous blue-green tones, accentuating depth and contrast. Dynamic Rococo compositions fused with early 20th-century craftsmanship. ?? Attribution Unsigned, in keeping with early workshop practice. Likely executed by Reginald Robert Tomlinson during his apprenticeship with Minton, Hollins & Co., c.1909, after the manner of Clodion. ?? Artist Biography – Reg...
