Description

A late 19thC French Demi lune half moon side table c1880. This petite and charming table has a half moon top quarter veneered in kingwood, inlaid with boxwood stringing to emphasise the shape and has fluted brass edging. The pattern is repeated on the curving side. There are three shaped drawers at the front, also repeating the design, with original brass acorn knobs. The table is further embellished with good quality brass furniture plates either side of the drawers and on the base of the front legs. In overall good antique condition, especially the wood which is not scratched or damaged. The back is faced with mahogany, polished, so this piece could stand mid room as well as against a wall.
