Description

A superb antique Anglo-Indian carved side table / occasional table dating from circa 1910. Most likely from the Kashmir Region of India. The impressive top is profusely carved in deep relief with vine and foliate details to the perimeter and has plain octagonal centre. The four shaped legs offer a stable platform, and are wonderfully carved and pierced. It dismantles into folding legs and slab top for easy transportation. With deep chocolate tones and a desirable aged patina. Construction/Wood: Teak Condition Report: Good colour and patina. Solid and sturdy. Wear and marks commensurate with age. Some small old losses to the carving in places. Dimensions: Width: 60cm Depth: 60cm Height: 61cm
