Description

A 19thC unframed oil on canvas of a Hussar in uniform. Thought to be French due to the frame construction and subject. Distressed but colourful and very decorative in its untouched condition. A very faint signature or initial is in the bottom right hand. The uniform is interesting and requires more research as it appears to be rare. A painting entitled 'The Hussar' by B.Wirth a French artist dated 1867 shows a very similar format (see last thwo photos). Brass ring to the rear for wall hanging. Flaked and cracked paint but with no holes we feel it is best left as is ,reflecting its passage through time rather than restored. 55 cm by 38 cm by about 2.5 cm deep.
