Description

19th Century English Regency Mahogany Serving Table. This table is of high regency form. It has an inverted breakfront outline, the two ends set forward from the centre. At the front are four cabriole legs with reeded detailing and lotus flower-type carving above beautifully executed paw feet. The frieze of the table is embellished with very fine quality ormolu mounts, consisting of four laurel wreaths, representing victory, and a longer central mount with anthemions and floral detailing. In the centre of the frieze is a concealed drawer. This is a fine and elegant table of excellent colour and with deep and detailed carving.
