Description

Exceptional Victorian antique brass bound walnut stationery box/writing slope c 1860 in immaculate, original condition. This beautiful box is 37cm wide and is truly a wonderful piece of craftsmanship. The upper section opens on the key to reveal sections for stationery, with two small sections with velvet lids. The two cut glass inkwells are brass mounted and are in perfect condition and completely original. The lower section unfolds to reveal a writing slope covered in the original blue velvet (very slight wear to the area around the join). A sign of true craftsmanship is the screw heads all face exactly the same way! This is a stunning cabinet and worthy of a place in the very best of settings. The figured walnut is simply the very best, and I can find no faults with it at all. Of course, it's 160 years old and will show small signs of use and wear, but there is no damage at all.
