Description

Antique Carnelian Intaglio Ring – Allegorical Figure with Laurel & Hearts, Circa 1780–1830 A fine antique ring set with a beautifully engraved oval carnelian intaglio depicting a classical allegorical figure. The female figure is shown kneeling, holding a laurel wreath beside a pedestal topped with two hearts—likely symbolising love, unity, or virtue. The gemstone is mounted in a plain bezel setting atop a charming three-wire gold shank, typical of late Georgian or early 19th-century construction. The ring is unhallmarked, as was common for period pieces, but tests as high-carat gold (likely 15ct–18ct). Item Details: Stone: Carnelian, intaglio engraved Setting: Plain bezel mount Shank: Three-wire gold shank Gold Purity: Not hallmarked, tests as 15ct–18ct gold (not marked) Finger Size: UK P½ (can be resized) Era: Late Georgian to early Victorian, c.1780–1830 Condition: Excellent antique condition with minimal age-related wear A deeply symbolic and collectible piece—elegant in both design and meaning.
