Description

Edwardian Mahogany Painted Top Inlaid Table. A very rare and unusual table perfect for a hallway. This is a truly exquisite and very rare Edwardian occasional table, dating from approximately 1890. The circular top is the most striking feature, boasting a rare and unusual hand-painted decoration. At its centre, a roundel depicts a delicate musical trophy featuring the ancient strung instruments, a lute and a lyre entwined with flowing ribbons and surrounded by pink roses. Radiating outwards from this central medallion is a beautifully painted garland of small pink roses and lush green leaves, interspersed with tiny yellow blossoms. This garland is further adorned with elegant teal-coloured ribbons tied into bows, creating a sense of graceful movement and symmetry. The artistry is subtle yet intricate, with the colors retaining a soft, period-appropriate hue. Around the very edge of the top, there is a fine boxwood and ebony inlaid stringing, providing a delicate frame to the painted decoration. The construction of the table is equally fine. The frieze below the top is of a simple, clean design, accentuated with delicate boxwood inlaid stringing, a classic detail of the ...
