Description

Art Deco Triple Strand Pearl Necklace with Diamond Clasp – 1930s Certified This sensational 1930s triple-strand pearl necklace captures the timeless elegance of the Art Deco era. Graduated cultured saltwater pearls, displaying a creamy ivory tone with subtle pink-green overtones and a deep lustre, are individually hand-knotted for beauty and security. The necklace has been recently restrung (February 2024) to ensure its longevity. Its centrepiece is a spectacular Art Deco clasp set in 18ct gold. At the heart of the clasp sits a wonderful old-cut diamond, surrounded by a further forty old-cut diamonds arranged in a distinctive Möbius-style pattern. Altogether the diamonds total approximately 1.20 carats (colour G, clarity VS1), producing a dazzling display of sparkle and sophistication. A secure push clasp with safety chain provides both style and peace of mind. Accompanied by an AnchorCert Gem Lab certificate, confirming that the pearls are cultured saltwater and the diamonds are natural, this necklace combines beauty, craftsmanship, and authenticity. An outstanding jewel of the period, it sits gracefully at the collarbone and looks truly stunning when worn – the per...
